COUNTY ORGANIZATION.

The State Executive Committee meets in Raleigh on the 15th of March to initiate movements for the long and laborious campaign before us. It is well that the county executive committee should take similar steps.

It has drawn forth the remark from some of our journalists that the party that makes such constant call for organization must be in deplorable progress towards disintegration. There can be no such inference drawn with any justice. There is no such thing as disorganization, in its worst sense, in the Democratic party. Its members are a unit in opposition to the Republican party; that party gains no accession from Democratic ranks. The weakness of the latter is in its over confidence, and therefore in its carelessness. It tolerates want of discipline, because it believes that the indulgence of irregularities cannot materially impair its strength. It thinks it can secure a few independent or malcontents and still win.

But the campaign before us admits of no such tampering with the safety of the party or the welfare of the people. The issues before us are too many and too grave to admit of trifling with them. The opposition is determined to win if they can do it by any means, and by the use of money. They will be armed at all points. They will press forward in solid column, and it is certain that a gap will not be found in their ranks.

The Democrats, if they would win, must follow the example of their opponents. They must call out their full strength. They must see that every voter is registered; they must see that information is disseminated among the people; they must rouse up the spirit of every township, and they must see that the discipline of the party is enforced, and that general interests are not sacrificed to private ends.

Let the errors of the past be sufficient safeguard against their repetition.

The cry from all parts of the country is one of commercial distress. Failures succeed each other with startling rapidity. No one can tell who is safe. Credit has gone and money has vanished; no measure for relief is proposed except the repeal of the specie resumption law. That the Republican party oppose, because it is their law, the essence of their financial wisdom. If they give into the proposition to repeal, then they confess the whole financial system a failure, and their proposed remedy, a blunder. But resumption now is not only a blunder, but it would be a crime, because it would absolutely deprive the people of a circulating medium. If the greenbacks and the national bank notes were all called in to be replaced by specie, there is not a fourth of the specie in the country to do it, or even enough upon which to found a basis for the issue of bank notes. But this process of calling in the present paper currency is going on in preparation for the operation of the resumption bill the time for which is fixed in the act. This is contraction, which is squeezing the life blood out of business.

All would welcome the return to specie payments. There would be the reality of money instead of its shadow of a shadow represented in the National Bank Currency. But it is very evident that with the tremendous debt of the country, and the depreciation of its credit, there is a wide gap yet to be filled between the par value of paper and gold.

The only relief we can hope for whilst the resumption bill stands in force, and the process of contraction goes on, is to ask of Congress the repeal of the law fixing a tax of ten per cent upon State Banks. Then we would have a local currency sufficient for home wants, and for the payment of State and County taxes.

The Hawaiian treaty, which only interests us in connection with the action of the Hawaiian government in the case of Capt. J. Iredell Waddell is in danger of defeat, not on account of any international troubles, but because the treaty is a one-sided reciprocity, and exacts from the United States the surrender of about $500,000 in revenue now derived from Hawaiian trade.

The Baltimore Trade Review says the proposition to tax tea and coffee does not meet with the favor that was expected, and the fact that it is a party measure will kill it. That journal says the Merchants would derive no advantage from the passage of the bill, because that prices would be reduced in Brazil to correspond with the imposition of the duty here. As we have before shown the only parties to be benefited are those who hold back large stocks now on hand in anticipation of the new duty, which they would put on the market as if they had paid the duty.

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR.

Expression of opinion among the many suitable gentlemen fitted to fill the highest office in the gift of the people of the State have been given by the press, in some instances, months ago. There is a good deal of premature in decided commitments to preferences, because much has to be unsaid and undone, because, after all, the choice falls to be but one upon whom it is to be hoped and expected, all will agree. Nevertheless, there is no special harm done, because in this way, the consideration of names is given, and qualifications discussed. We do not feel ourselves called upon to commit ourselves to the expression of any preference, being determined to abide by the choice of the Convention.

Among the names mentioned are those of Z. B. Vance, who in some parts of the State is hailed with an enthusiasm that might seem to indicate his nomination almost by acclamation. His past services as Governor, his efficient management of public affairs during the trying and critical period of the war; his versatility of genius, his eloquence and his inimitable humor, have attracted to him more consideration than perhaps any man that has yet been named. Yet it will not be safe to predict with definite certainty.

There is Gen'l. W. R. Cox a gentleman of fine talent, of conspicuous service to his country during the war, battle scarred, and filled with honorable wounds, prominent as a lawyer, able, faithful and useful as a member of the Democratic party, well known throughout the State, as the Chairman of the Executive Committee, and for his earnest labor and able speeches in behalf of the Convention. Yet he is not certain of the nomination.

Then there is Montfort McGeehe, a gentleman in every sense of the word, pure and upright, learned and talented, conspicuous for his zeal for his party, distinguished for his ability in public life, every way fitted to adorn the Executive chair. He too will come in competition with others who may prove the favorites of the Convention.

There is Col. Thomas M. Holt, the former, the manufacturer the arrier of his own fortune, the man whose clear common sense and unblemished integrity have paved the way to fortune; a man who has proved himself equal to every position he has ever been placed in.

There is Gen. Robt. B. Vance, the tried and gallant soldier, the able and useful civilian elevated to his seat in Congress by the confidence of a people who believe him, also, fit to be at the head of their State affairs.

And there are others whose names will come before the Convention from among whom the Convention will make its choice, upon whom all the others will unite to secure one great objective point of the coming campaign—a Democratic Governor.

SWIFT WITNESSES.

What a commentary upon the purity of the administration when the whole male family of the President hurry off to St. Louis to act as witnesses in the Babcock trial now in progress, the President himself declaring his own intention to go if necessary. This anxiety to shield a personal favorite pretty clearly foreshadows the action of the Executive in the event of conviction. The favorite if found guilty will be pardoned, and go forth scot free from the penalties attached to his fellows in guilt. True, he has the moral brand of the felon put upon him. But an outraged people demand something more than a farcical punishment, for one base enough to conspire deliberately for crime will scarcely have a conscience tender enough to give him conscience.

But Grant will pardon Babcock if convicted and receive him back in triumph to the presidential mansion. And then the nation will see they have a master who defies the laws, scorns public opinion, and uses his position for the full exercise of his imperial likes and antipathies.

The House on Wednesday last passed a bill repealing the Bankruptcy law. This is an unexpected movement, since no special demand has been made for the measure. The creditor class appear to have been the instigators of the proposition. In the House, after the bill passed, an error was discovered in the citing of the previous law under which the bill went into operation, and a motion was made to amend by unanimous consent. To this Kason objected on the ground that the bill favored the debtor altogether. This was the only approach to debate on the bill, and it went to the Senate with the error incorporated in it.

The Asheville Citizen nominates Z. B. Vance for Governor, and Gen. W. R. Cox for Lieutenant Governor, subject to the action of the Convention.

The President's deposition in the Babcock case was taken in Washington on Saturday and forwarded to St. Louis by special messenger. Babcock is evidently in a tight place.

DEATH OF REVERDY JOHNSON.

This distinguished lawyer and statesman was accidentally killed at Annapolis on Wednesday night. He had dined with Governor Carroll after having argued a case before the Supreme Court. Rising from the table with the other guests, he went into the office, while the other gentlemen went into a smoking room. Soon after a servant beckoned Gov. Carroll out, and Mr. Johnson was found dead on the pavement of the carriage way which passes under the porch of the mansion. He had evidently fallen out in an apoplectic fit. His skull was fractured and he was bleeding profusely.

Mr. Johnson was born in 1796, and was just 80 years of age. He preserved his vigor of mind and vivacity of disposition to the very moment of his death. He had been conspicuous for many years in the legal and political world, had been in the U. S. Senate, was Minister to England; and U. S. Attorney General. He might have occupied many high positions if his preference for the law had not been greater than his love of politics.

Grant has been snubbed by one of the 'truly loyal.' On Wednesday in Executive Session, Bruce, the colored Senator from Mississippi denounced Grant and the Carpet buggers most bitterly. He opposed Grant's pretensions to a third term, declared his determination to vote against him, and said that Grant was unfaithful to the South and wound up by advising the negroes of the Mississippi to ally themselves with the Democratic whites, upon whom they could rely. Grant afterwards invited Bruce to an interview but the sulky brawler refused to meet his former master. So it goes. One black sheep has jumped the fence; will the rest follow?

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

On Monday night a most fearful fire broke out in New York among large importing houses of dry goods, silks, crapes, laces, hats &c., destroying several houses extending through from Broadway to Crosby St. The losses were immense, one firm losing goods to the amount of $600,000, another $500,000 the total loss being about $2,000,000 on goods and about $400,000 on houses. A large portion of the loss is covered by insurance.

During the progress of the fire, the iron front of one of the buildings on Broadway fell outward into the street, killing two firemen and wounding many more.

It is spoken of as a noteworthy thing that Queen Victoria opened the new session of Parliament in person, a thing she has not done for years. She was present in great state, attended by the Lords and Ladies in waiting, though she did not speak herself. Lord Cairns reading it in her name. The English people have become very impatient under the scanty glimmers of royal state they have had since Prince Albert's death, and the diminition of these shows has had much to do with the growth of democracy and the failure of reverence for royalty which is conspicuous of late years.

Mr. Beecher, speaking last evening of the Gospel command to hate evil, not only in others, but in ourselves, said: "I do not think it would be safe to give a person the run of the New York banks. The vault might be open, and every human being in the city might be asleep, and I would not take a dollar—at least, I do not think I would. But a man does not know what he may do until he is tried. [Laughter.] I came of honest stock—my parents were honest—I would not steal. I have faults, but they lie in a different direction." [Laughter.]—N. Y. Sun, 31st.

ROOMS OF THE DEM. CON. EX. COM.; Raleigh N. C.; Jan. 29th, 1876.

At a meeting of the Central Executive Committee of the Democratic Conservative party this day held, it was resolved that a meeting of the State Executive Committee be called to assemble in the city of Raleigh on Wednesday, the 15th day of March, 1876. The object of the meeting is to decide upon the time and place of holding the State Convention of the Democratic Conservative party and to consider such matters as may be before the Committee.

Each member of the Committee is earnestly requested to be present.

A number of petitions were presented in favor of the Texas Pacific railroad. Bill appropriating $25,000 to continue the improvements on the Capitol grounds was passed.

Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Finance, reported a substitute for the resolution submitted by Mr. Dawes, of West Virginia, early in the session, in regard to the accounts of defaulting public officers, &c. The substitute directs the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish the Senate as soon as possible with a statement of all balances due the United States from public officers and other persons, but not now in the public service, distinguishing those which have been settled, and setting forth as near as practicable the period over which such accounts have extended, the amounts awarded, set together with the character of such held by the United States the amount of such stock, and if default has been made in the payment of interest thereon.

Mr. Morrison submitted a resolution requesting the Secretary of War to furnish the Senate with the report and accompanying maps, diagrams and estimates made in pursuance of the act of March 3rd, 1875, directing the survey of the line of the Neuse river to connect it with Cape Fear river, and to purchase the waters of the Harbor of Norfolk, Va.; with those of the Cape Fear river, at or near Wilmington, N. C. Adopted.

Washington Feb. 10.—It is stated that Senator Bruce, of Mississippi in executive session today pronounced himself as opposed to Grant and the third term. He was quite emphatic. He thought Grant did not care for the South. He will not support him if nominated. He further stated that the colored people had better make terms with the resident whites of the South.

On Sunday evening about 5 o'clock the first thunder-storm of the season broke upon us in genuine summer grandeur. It was accompanied by a copious rain fall. During the night the storm was renewed, and the morning dawned with a drizzling rain. On Monday morning the sun was all full and the ground thoroughly saturated.

The plum trees are all in bloom, and the delicate blush of the peach begins to show itself through the budding buds.

A planter in this vicinity brought his tobacco to the market. It was offered $12, and declined it, and going to another market he sold it for $10.

There is no question now that Hillsboro is the best place to live in a permanent one.

On Sunday evening about 5 o'clock the first thunder-storm of the season broke upon us in genuine summer grandeur. It was accompanied by a copious rain fall. During the night the storm was renewed, and the morning dawned with a drizzling rain. On Monday morning the sun was all full and the ground thoroughly saturated.

The plum trees are all in bloom, and the delicate blush of the peach begins to show itself through the budding buds.

Special Note.

Another MALE will be held in the Hillsboro Warehouse on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of March. Sellers will please prepare themselves with big lots and for good prices.

The weekly sales will in the mean time be kept up four days in the week, as per advertisement.

Mr. P. N. Waddell Jr. of this place, late of Charlotte has been appointed general collecting agent for the Raleigh Daily News.

The truck on the W. N. C. R. R. has been sold to Malone's store, three miles beyond the depot, and the use of the same road between Old Post and Asheville. Crime for the first time in this State has been turned to use, and penitentiary convicts in useful parties. We are the legislature that made them useful to the State. We are the material to the State.

We announced with regret last week the withdrawal of the excellent landlord, Mr. L. E. Maxwell from the charge of this house. We are glad to learn that he will be succeeded by Mr. James Parks, and the public will have no reason to complain as the exchange, when Mr. Parks will prove to be all that is wanted.

This time honored journal, after a suspension of a few weeks, has emerged from the cloud and comes out as strong and as bright as before. We wish to express a continuance of sympathy, which his long devotion to his profession and to his party deserves.

Marriage.

We are glad to learn that the school is making steady progress in its numbers and that the school is making steady progress in its numbers and that the school is making steady progress in its numbers.

The special advertisement, to come off on the 1st and 2nd, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, was filled with satisfactory results. The room was filled with the wagon and the floor of the Warehouse crowded with buyers. A considerable number of buyers from abroad were present, and the bidding was very animated. It is sufficient evidence of the character of the sales that the foreign buyers in some instances did not buy because the prices were higher than corresponding grades elsewhere. The farmers were generally highly satisfied with the price obtained. Only two lots were taken in which were afterwards sold at another market for less than the bid at this sale. Although the most hopeful encouragement is extended to give our market character and permanency. It is energetically and judiciously managed, and invites fairly a share of the large crop of the surrounding counties which it does, without detriment or disadvantage to markets already established.

Market News.

We have received the first number of the Mercury published in Milton by Mr. J. V. Thaxton. It is neatly printed, and is a sound Democratic journal, giving promise of much usefulness in the coming campaign. We wish it permanent success.

There is no person living but what suffers more or less with Lung Disease, Coughs, Colds or Consumption, yet some would die rather than pay 75 cents for a bottle of medicine that would cure them. Dr. A. R. H. German's German Syrup has been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wondrous cure astonishes every one that tries it. If you doubt what we say in print, cut this out and take it to your Druggist Dr. G. H. Hooker, and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it, or a regular size for 75 cents.

What changes have taken place in that period? In none have they more radical than in the treatment of disease. In the olden time, nature, prostrate with pain and suffering, was attacked with the lancet, calomel, blisters, starvation and thirst. All this was done with honest intentions but with terrible results. It is a pleasing fact that the enlightened public of the present day have discarded such medication. The disorders that sap the power of life are now expelled by remedial agents, that brace up the vital strength, while running the disease. The qualities are found in an eminent degree in Dr. Tuttle's Vegetable Liver Pills. They have become celebrated over a wide extent of the globe as the safest and gentlest remedial agent ever offered to suffering humanity, and it is not the result of newspaper puffing, but by the greatest merit of the medicine itself.

STATENEWS.

On 17th, the infamous, holds a paying position in the Capital Police at Washington.

Peter Kintler, of Irredell county, aged 75 years, the other day married Miss Rachel Black, aged 54 years.

"Aunt Mary," a negro woman who was formerly a slave of Mrs. Ann Maguire, of Wilmington, died on Monday evening last at the ripe age of 110.

Two men in Pendler county, started out with their guns in search of a thief who had stolen a bag from one of them. After proceeding a considerable distance, they stopped at a house to get warm, leaving their guns and bag in the cart. While they were in the house, the bag was stolen, and it is thought, by the same fellow for whom they were hunting.

Raleigh News: Paschal Loyd, an aged tenant on Wiley J. Jones' farm near this city, died the other day. He was seventy three years of age. His dying request was he should be buried in the shoes he wore every day, with his every day hat on, and his walking cane to be placed in his coffin. It was done as he requested. He was asked that the lid of the coffin should not be screwed on tight. His hickory stick with a leather handle, was placed in his coffin and at the grave his friends uncovered the coffin and lowered him down, hat, shoes, stick, and all.

There are by actual count, 43 lawyers in Raleigh.

The Wake county Board of Commissioners has reduced taxes for State and county purposes, from 75 to 60 cents.

A negro near Oxford drank a quantity of about a half gallon of ardent spirits the other day and died almost instantly.

It is sufficient evidence of the character of the sales that the foreign buyers in some instances did not buy because the prices were higher than corresponding grades elsewhere. The farmers were generally highly satisfied with the price obtained. Only two lots were taken in which were afterwards sold at another market for less than the bid at this sale. Although the most hopeful encouragement is extended to give our market character and permanency. It is energetically and judiciously managed, and invites fairly a share of the large crop of the surrounding counties which it does, without detriment or disadvantage to markets already established.

Market News.

We have received the first number of the Mercury published in Milton by Mr. J. V. Thaxton. It is neatly printed, and is a sound Democratic journal, giving promise of much usefulness in the coming campaign. We wish it permanent success.

H. Martin Wright, Mailman, 1876.

"For two years I have been a great sufferer with the Piles. I used one bottle of Dr. Wade's Liver Corrector, and am now entirely cured."

CUT THIS OUT.

IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

There is no person living but what suffers more or less with Lung Disease, Coughs, Colds or Consumption, yet some would die rather than pay 75 cents for a bottle of medicine that would cure them. Dr. A. R. H. German's German Syrup has been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wondrous cure astonishes every one that tries it. If you doubt what we say in print, cut this out and take it to your Druggist Dr. G. H. Hooker, and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it, or a regular size for 75 cents.

What changes have taken place in that period? In none have they more radical than in the treatment of disease. In the olden time, nature, prostrate with pain and suffering, was attacked with the lancet, calomel, blisters, starvation and thirst. All this was done with honest intentions but with terrible results. It is a pleasing fact that the enlightened public of the present day have discarded such medication. The disorders that sap the power of life are now expelled by remedial agents, that brace up the vital strength, while running the disease. The qualities are found in an eminent degree in Dr. Tuttle's Vegetable Liver Pills. They have become celebrated over a wide extent of the globe as the safest and gentlest remedial agent ever offered to suffering humanity, and it is not the result of newspaper puffing, but by the greatest merit of the medicine itself.

STATENEWS.

"Aunt Mary," a negro woman who was formerly a slave of Mrs. Ann Maguire, of Wilmington, died on Monday evening last at the ripe age of 110.

Two men in Pendler county, started out with their guns in search of a thief who had stolen a bag from one of them. After proceeding a considerable distance, they stopped at a house to get warm, leaving their guns and bag in the cart. While they were in the house, the bag was stolen, and it is thought, by the same fellow for whom they were hunting.

Raleigh News: Paschal Loyd, an aged tenant on Wiley J. Jones' farm near this city, died the other day. He was seventy three years of age. His dying request was he should be buried in the shoes he wore every day, with his every day hat on, and his walking cane to be placed in his coffin. It was done as he requested. He was asked that the lid of the coffin should not be screwed on tight. His hickory stick with a leather handle, was placed in his coffin and at the grave his friends uncovered the coffin and lowered him down, hat, shoes, stick, and all.

There are by actual count, 43 lawyers in Raleigh.

The Wake county Board of Commissioners has reduced taxes for State and county purposes, from 75 to 60 cents.

A negro near Oxford drank a quantity of about a half gallon of ardent spirits the other day and died almost instantly.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 15th.

The State republican newspapers of the country, and, we are sorry to see, also some of the democratic journals as well, are taking to task the present Congress, and more especially the lower house, for doing so little in the way of active legislation since the session began in December. We, of course, are prepared for any amount of fault finding and vituperation from radical sources, yet must say that the democratic papers, under the circumstances, entirely too hasty in their condemnation. So numerous and so mighty are the frauds which this republican party has built up during its lease of power (which, thank heaven, is now over forever) that it is entirely unreasonable to suppose that the opposition on assuming control of the lower House, can, in the course of a few weeks, undo and counteract all the unwise and dangerous legislation which has been carried through by that unscrupulous party in the course of many years. Prudence is, at this time especially, necessary in the making future laws. "Festina lente," always a good motto, either in public affairs or private business, is especially so now when the well-being and safety of the Republic may hang upon the laws passed at the present session.

The financial question, for example, is one of exceeding great interest and moment, and therefore, must not be dealt with hastily and unadvisedly. This, however, is but a single one out of the numerous questions which the present Congress must settle, all affecting the prosperity and happiness of the American people to such a degree that the least mistake of the democrats may lose them all present advantage, besides plunging the people in still greater poverty and misfortune than they are now compelled to endure from the criminal legislation of the republicans. It will therefore be readily seen why a great necessity exists for a long session of Congress, and that extraordinary care must be taken before measures are passed.

The Centennial appropriation bill, after running the gauntlet in the House, and receiving a not very complimentary majority, has gone to the Senate, where it seems to meet very strong opposition, which will not prevent its becoming a law.

The Pinchback case still hangs fire. The democrats have resolved in a body to vote for Senator Edmunds' amendment to Morton's motion, said amendment being that "he be not admitted," and as at large number of the republicans of that body are not so blinded by party prejudice as the federal Senator, it seems just now as if Pinchback's

SYMPHYTUM ASPERRIMUM.

From the Southern Planter and Farmer. Experiencing the great want in this State of some good fodder plant, I was induced to place myself in communication with a gentleman in Europe who has devoted many years to this subject, and who had, after considerable expense of time and money, succeeded in introducing the above named plant into the United States.

The common name of this plant is Prickly Comfrey. There are several varieties of symphytum indigenous to Great Britain, but none of them are of much value for feeding purposes. The true symphytum asperum is a native of the Caucasus, and produces enormous crops of the best fodder, which, both in the green and dry state, is greedily eaten by horses, cows, sheep, pigs and poultry.

The culture of symphytum is simple and inexpensive. The ground is dug or plowed six or eight inches deep, and well manured at the same time.

The grasshopper. That dire scourge of the western States has effectively arrested the tide of emigration which has been in that direction for the past quarter of a century, and brings the emigrant to a wretched pause as he enquires "Whither shall I go?"

But humanity and honor requires that we answer the question conscientiously. He is forced to turn to some point. Shall we advise him to come South? I have many times answered this question affirmatively, but before we do so let us deal honestly with the emigrant and conceal no part of the truth from him.

To emigrants wishing to pursue any one of the following industries, namely: wool-growing, dairying, and cheese-making, and stock-raising, I would point him to that high plateau of land including the Blue Ridge, where it runs through the counties of Jackson, Macon and Clay, and thence into Georgia, containing perhaps over two thousand acres of land, the most of which is lifted by the Blue Ridge to the height of nearly 3,000 feet above the level of the sea.

Although it is here directly under the 35th degree N. L. its great height secures to it a cool, pure atmosphere, and gives it a beautiful climate as is so earth.

All the grains and grasses common to a high latitude flourish on these lands, hence its adaptability to the above mentioned branches of industry. Of course none but a small species of Indian corn called Canadian corn will ripen there. Judge R. H. Greenham, whose address is Asheville, N. C., is agent for the tract of 30,000 acres of these highlands, and I believe the price for the tract is $1,200 at that price by wholesale, or $2 per acre by the single hundred acres. Most of the highlands are reached by good wagon roads, and being settled by honest citizens.

CHICKEN CHOLERA.

It is difficult to several letters asking for recipes for disinfecting mixtures to use about poultry-houses and yards, where the above named dreaded scourge prevails we give the following: Eight or ten pounds of sulphate of iron (copperas) dissolved in 500 gallons of water, with half a pint of crude carbolic acid added, to the solution, and briskly stirred, makes the cheapest and best disinfecting fluid for common use. It can be prepared in every town, and if the carbolic acid is not at hand, the solution of copperas may be used without it. Sprinkle the walls, nest-boxes and perches daily with the above.

For the disinfection of ground, on which and around the house of diseased fowls has been cast, use: It is a good plan to have a large pile of the inside of poultry houses, in districts invaded by chicken cholera.
